Suits at work

Suit, uniform or casual wear for work? Many workplaces have a dress code; if not explicit, then tacit. The current work climate is often informal, with the majority of employees expected only to be sensibly and neatly dressed. At Ted Bernhardt At Work, we design suits and uniforms for anyone whose occupation calls for more well-dressed and formal attire. A stylish dark blue or medium-grey business suit inspires confidence and commands respect. A well-cut uniform with a smooth fit signals professionalism and makes the wearer feel self-assured and at ease. In our collection, we have split our wool range into three different lines: Core Ultimate, Comfort Performance and Supreme Superwool RWS, according to the properties of the cloth and the intended wear. Common to all three lines is that they are designed for wearability and manufactured to a high standard for long-lasting performance.

Core Ultimate Fine Twill

Our Core Ultimate suit is an urban-style corporate and business suit cut from wool stretch cloth. The weave features ultrafine yarns for a subtler, more tailored feeling. The lightweight, dense weave of a superior twill rib cloth feels extra cool and comfortable to wear, and is equally robust and shrink-resistant. The two-way stretch cloth complements the suit's elegant cut for a professional appearance all day at work.

Supreme Superwool RWS Hopsack

With its discreet minimalist texture, Supreme Superwool is a contemporary suit cut from merino wool cloth. The double-plain weave, or hopsack weave, features black accents in the grey or blue yarn. With its tailored elegance and effortless Scandinavian cool, this suit is appropriate for every setting and occasion. The twin-spun yarns make our Supreme Superwool suit extra durable and shrink-resistant, yet also soft and supple. Wool suits transport heat and wick away moisture better than suits in blended fabrics, making them cool and comfortable in warm weather. Conversely, in the cold, our wool suit warms and insulates, making it a year-round favourite. A wool suit should be rested for a day or two between wears. Responsible Wool Standard means that the wool is produced by RWS-certified farms.

Blazers & coats at work

Business Casual is a relaxed but stylish workwear look, where the coordinated suit is replaced by a smart wool blazer or suit jacket. Our blazers typically feature a coarse-weave texture or discreet all-over mini-motif. Coordinate with the wool coat and dressy chinos or smart jeans and a less formal blue or white shirt.

Our Wool Blazer RWS-Panama has a coarser texture to the weave. It is half-lined in a butterfly cut, with only a panel of lining across the back, for a cooler, airier garment. The blazer features light padding to the shoulders and patch pockets, to reinforce the casual blazer style.

The wool coat in our collection is made from a thick, durable Melton fabric. The streamlined cut provides a well-dressed look, a modern standard fit and has sufficient ease for wearing a suit or blazer underneath. Responsible Wool Standard means that the wool is produced by RWS-certified farms.

Upper wear at work

The overall look is important for coordinated and considered attire. Every employee is the link between their employer and the client, and in one way or another represents their employer. Our At Work collection offers a wide range of options for achieving a stylish and coordinated appearance. Everything from pilot shirts and suit-smart looks in every fabric and fit. Poplin in an iron-safe cotton blend or more dressy fine twill in luxurious 100% cotton. For a more casual look, oxford and denim in washed cotton for the retail and service sector, or worn underneath a smart wool blazer. Team with luxurious fine-knit merino wool in a pullover or slipover, or a piqué cotton polo shirt to go with our service-sector trousers.
